

I Believe in God. By ~~V~~:/:/ ~~Klaas~~ Klaas Runia. Chicago: Inter-Varsity Press, 1963. 77 pp. $1.50

Here is proof that good things come in small packages. This booklet reviews the ~~xxx~~ history and teaching of the Apostles<sup>m</sup>, Nicene, and Athanasian Creeds, with emphasis on their Christology, soteriology, and bibliology. It then shows how neoorthodoxy and particularly the new liberalism have departed from the orthodox faith as represented in the creeds. ~~The~~ author includes ~~an~~ an especially helpful critique of Tillich, and there are good sections on Bultmann, and J.A.T. Robinson (author of Honest to God).
